Commendation

Consular Corps of Arizona

November 2007

It is a great pleasure to extend my congratulations as Consular Corps of Arizona celebrates its silver jubilee of Ambassadors' Ball.

Over the past decades, the Consular Corps of Arizona has served as not only a unique family embracing consulates from 30 different countries, but also a respectful contributor in supporting global education and children research by way of fundraising from the Ambassadors' Ball, which has made a lasting impact on the local community. In the years to come, I hope and believe, the Consular Corps of Arizona will continue to nourish its relationship with the State government and people of Arizona, and play an even more essential role in helping those who need care.

On behalf of the Consulate General of the People's Republic of China in Los Angeles, I extend my best wishes for your continued success.

Ambassador Zhang Yun

GREETINGS!

The State of Arizona has a long history in international trade and relations with many countries around the world. In today's global economy these trade and relationships are ever more important for our state.

The Consular Corps of Arizona also has a long history in Arizona. Your nearly thirty country membership of Consuls and Honorary Consuls are an integral part of Arizona's international and multi-cultural landscape whether it be about residents, commercial trade, education or tourism.

The Consular Corps' signature annual event, The Ambassadors' Ball, highlights the culture of a different country each year. Your selection of China and the Chinese culture this year is significant because of the present heightened relationship between our two countries as well as between China and Arizona.

Best wishes for a successful Ambassadors' Ball!

Yours very truly,

Janet Napolitano

GREETINGS!

On behalf of the citizens of the State of Arizona, I would like to extend a warm welcome to everyone attending tonight's Consular Corps of Arizona 25th Anniversary Ambassador's Ball.

Each year, the Ambassador's Ball focuses attention on a country or an important international event. Previous balls have celebrated, among others, Austria, Belgium, Brazil, France and Sweden. This year's event honors the People's Republic of China and is chaired by the Honorable Brad Brados, Consul of Brazil for Arizona.

Americans of Chinese descent can be proud of their roots and the vital role they play in the growth of our state and great nation. During this special time, let us celebrate the spirit of community that brings us together as one.

Sincerely,

Janice K. Brewer

The ASU School of Global Management and Leadership is honored to serve as one of the Presenting Sponsors for the Consular Corps of Arizona 25th Anniversary Ambassador's Ball and are grateful for the support and recognition of the Consular Corps of Arizona.

The ASU School of Global Management and Leadership is leading the way in global business education. SGML serves nearly 2,000 students from diverse ethnic, cultural, and socio-economic backgrounds in metropolitan Phoenix, the nation's fifth largest city. We play a significant role in helping Arizona State University implement a new model of American higher education, the "New American University." Along these lines, our goal is to provide an unprecedented combination of academic excellence, broad access and positively impact the economic, social, cultural and environmental health and well-being of the communities we serve. Our research is inspired by real world application and our students are the future leaders both here in Arizona and around the world.

The ASU School of Global Management and Leadership continues to increase our "Global Footprint" to include partnerships with Tec de Monterrey in Mexico and Wilfrid Laurier in Canada. We are also in advanced discussions with universities in Brazil, China, Ireland and Finland. We have launched several new degree programs, including the Leadership in International Management (BS LIM) at the undergraduate level and a Master's in Applied Leadership and Management (MALM) and a Master's in Accounting and Applied Leadership (MAAL). Our graduates at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, are taking what they have learned in our classrooms into the workforce to be major contributors to the economic vitality of the region.

Again, we thank the Consular Corps of Arizona for the opportunity to be a part of such a significant program that is having a tremendous impact on the globalization of our region
